2. English Translation

A. Licentiate in Both Laws

28 May 1749

Before the Vicar General and the assembled professors, the distinguished Angelo Gaspare Paoletti of Tarantasca was presented to obtain the degree of Licentiate in Both Laws (Civil and Canon Law).

The examination subjects were:

Canon Law

- On Elections (De Electione)

Civil Law

- On matters that may be included in legal stipulations and contracts.

Following examination and voting, he was approved and awarded the Licentiate degree.

B. Doctor of Both Laws

16 April 1750

Angelo Gaspare Paoletti of Tarantasca appeared before the university authorities seeking the degree of Doctor of Both Laws.

Subjects examined:

Civil Law

- Quasi-pupillary substitution (a form of inheritance law)

Canon Law

- Ecclesiastical constitutions

After examination and voting he was approved and awarded the doctoral degree.

C. Admission to the College of Jurists

11 March 1751

Doctor Angelo Gaspare Paoletti of Tarantasca sought admission to the College of Jurists.

He was examined on:

Canon Law

- Benefices and dignities
- Rights of patronage
- First fruits and ecclesiastical offerings

Civil Law

- Jurisdiction
- Contracts
- Verbal obligations

After voting and formal review, he was admitted and invested with the insignia of the College of Jurists according to royal regulations.

3. Summary

This document records the complete legal qualification process of Angelo Gaspare Paoletti of Tarantasca:

Date	Achievement
28 May 1749	Licentiate in Civil and Canon Law
16 Apr 1750	Doctor of Civil and Canon Law
11 Mar 1751	Admission to the College of Jurists

The records show his progression from student to fully qualified lawyer and finally to membership in the elite professional body that supplied judges, advocates, senators and high officials to the Kingdom of Sardinia.

4. Significance

A. Identification

The document identifies:

Angelo Gaspare Paoletti

- Native of Tarantasca
- Doctor of Both Laws (J.U.D. - Juris Utriusque Doctor)
- Member of the legal elite of Turin

This is one of the earliest firmly documented milestones in his career.

B. Educational Status

During the eighteenth century there were several stages:

Licentiate

Equivalent to professional qualification permitting legal practice.

Doctorate

The highest academic legal degree.

College of Jurists

A restricted professional corporation whose members often became:

- Judges
- Senators
- Magistrates
- Royal councillors
- Advocates General
- Senior administrators

Admission was selective and prestigious.

C. Social Status

These records demonstrate that by age adulthood Angelo Gaspare Paoletti belonged to:

- the educated elite,
- the professional legal class,
- and the administrative class serving the House of Savoy.

This is entirely consistent with his later appearance as:

- Avvocato Generale,
- Senator,
- Count of Rodoretto,
- Judge of the Consolato of Turin.

5. Timeline Impact

The documents now establish the beginning of Gaspare Angelo Paoletti’s documented career:

Date	Event
28 May 1749	Licentiate in Law
16 Apr 1750	Doctor of Law
11 Mar 1751	Admitted to College of Jurists
22 Jun 1766	Avvocato Generale presso il Senato di Piemonte
Aug 1768	Investiture and comital dignities
23 Dec 1774	Giudice Straordinario, Consolato di Torino
1 Jan 1776	Giudice Ordinario, Consolato di Torino
1800	Chiaffredo Paoletti appointed Vice Inspector of prisons (probably next generation)

6. Additional Notes

Tarantasca

The repeated reference to:

Angelus Gaspar Paoletti a Tarantasca

confirms that the family was still publicly associated with Tarantasca even while pursuing careers in Turin.

College of Jurists

The admission in 1751 is arguably the most important entry in the document.

Many law graduates never advanced beyond the doctorate. Admission to the Collegio dei Giurisperiti gave access to the upper levels of government and the judiciary. It is likely the decisive step that led to Paoletti's later appointments and eventual elevation within the administration of the Kingdom of Sardinia.

Estimated Birth Year

Because he received a licentiate in 1749, Angelo Gaspare Paoletti was probably born around 1725–1730, although earlier is possible. This estimate may help position him correctly in your growing Paoletti family tree.
